Commissioners' Notice.

PENOBSCOT, ss. August 31, A. D. 1875.

A certain piece of land situated in Orono in said County, belonging to the estate of Joseph Colby, late of said Orono, deceased, and set off to Mary Colby, widow of said deceased, as her dower in said estate, and bounded as follows, viz: Beginning at the southeast corner of said lot at the road leading from Orono to Stillwater; thence running westerly on said road to the land of Joseph Colby; thence northerly on said Colby's land to the land of Mary Colby; thence easterly on said Mary Colby's land to the road aforesaid; thence southerly on said road to the first bounded, containing about fifty acres, more or less, being the same premises assigned to said Mary Colby as her dower in said estate, having been duly returned to this Court, and accepted and approved by the Court, and ordered to be recorded, and notice thereof given to all persons interested, by publishing an attested copy of this order in the Bangor Whig and Courier, a newspaper printed in Bangor, in the County of Penobscot, three successive weeks, the last publication to be thirty days before the next term of this Court to be holden at Bangor within and for the County of Penobscot, on the first Tuesday of October, A. D. 1875, for the allowance of said dower, and that the same may be recorded in the Registry of Deeds for said County of Penobscot.

And now the petitioner, Mary Colby, widow of said Joseph Colby, late of said Orono, deceased, has filed in this Court a petition praying that the dower assigned to her in said estate may be allowed and established by the Court.

And it appearing to the Court that the petitioner is entitled to the relief prayed for in her petition, it is ordered that the petitioner give notice to all persons interested, by causing an attested copy of said petition and this order thereon to be published in the Bangor Whig and Courier, a newspaper printed in Bangor, in said County of Penobscot, three successive weeks, the last publication to be thirty days before the next term of this Court to be holden at Bangor aforesaid, that they may appear at said term and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.

A SOLDIER'S OPINION

A VETERAN'S CHOICE BETWEEN CONNOR AND ROBERTS

PORTLAND, Sept 6 1875

To the Editor of the Whig and Courier

In glancing over the columns of the Press-Herald of your city, my attention was called to an article entitled "What do you think of him?" I read the same and found it purported to have been written by a soldier. Now I was living the life real soldier, a soldier and I trust I performed every duty well and faithfully, and I also think I have some chance of being able to judge by the signs of the times, how the soldiers will vote in the coming election, as between Gen I Selden Connor and Gen'l C W Roberts.

The correspondent referred to the letter written by Col. Smith to General Roberts, as a "dainty and scurrilous one." Now he knows better. The letter in question was very courteous in tone and did not contain one word of insult but was gentlemanly throughout though couched in firmness and in terms which could in no wise be misunderstood. What are the facts as regards the nomination of General Roberts? Some weeks before the Convention met, which nominated him, he had written a letter positively declining to be a candidate. But he immediately accepted the nomination tendered him and in his letter of acceptance never hinted that he had not all the time wished for and expected it. Soon after, on the occasion of a serenade, he made a speech and he did not then take the trouble to inform the people assembled that the nomination came to him unexpected and unsought. The Democratic party only brought him before the people to secure if possible, the support of the soldier which as an element of power, is considerable, as they well know. The Republican party had selected as its standard bearer as gallant a soldier as ever drew a sword in defence of country and the opposition wished, if possible to overcome the power which they supposed the opponents had by the move gained. Gen Roberts was placed before the people because he was a soldier in the late war, and they recommended him for his war record. Now if South only wished to set said record right before the country, and in his letter he gave the General credit for all he did do and only blamed him for what he did not do, and by the performance of which he would have well earned the title of an able and brave officer. Comrades, the trouble is the Col. spoke or rather told the truth, and it is belittled the General's claim to be placed among the heroes of the war, or the real ones at least thereby lessening his chances of election to the governorship, but his party have seen fit to berate the Colonel soundly for daring to see the people right in the matter. Now I want to ask this correspondent of Gen Roberts has, since the publishing of the afor said letter ever attempted a denial of its contents, or has his party ever done so? Why has Mr Emery and Mr Pillsbury and the hosts of others, leaders and hangers-on of the great Democratic party, been so silent as to contradict the statements of Col Smith?—They have had plenty of time to do so, and the charges were made openly and in an unlimited way. Col Smith is well known throughout the State, and his word is without a stain, and it is also well known that he would never attack the record of a fellow man, and that one's comrade too, unless his sense of duty required him to do so, and then he would never state an untruth.

Comrades, can we consistently support for the high office of Governor of our State, a man who has for his chief supporters such men as Marcellus Emery E F. Pillsbury and others of the same political tendencies? These very men when the question came up of giving us the right to exercise a freeman's privilege that of casting a ballot in the rented field, opposed the idea, and fought it with a vigor truly surprising. And at all times during the war, they proved themselves to be more our enemies than the rebels in our very front. Ah! comrades they tell us that we must not bring up the old issues of the war but I say to you one and all, those issues are closely linked with the great questions of to-day and they will never be buried out of sight. We need a Republican victory on the 13th day of September as much as we needed Union victories from 1861 to 1865.

The very men who control the opposition to-day are, many of them, the same who, when Gen. Roberts left the field (when his services were so much needed) and returned home, received him with open arms and he became as one of them and opposed the very measures which, while a soldier, he had so strongly advocated, even denying to the brave men of his old command the support they so much needed to assist them in the defence of the old flag. This movement on his part has its damaging effect upon him now, when he asks for support to carry to a success the move he is making for a high honor.

A vote for Roberts means an endorsement of the action of the Democratic party during the dark days of war. And shall we, my comrades, by our votes declare that we have repented of the stand we took when the old flag was in danger? Most surely, if we so far forget ourselves as to cast our votes with the Democratic party, we shall say to the world, we were wrong, and we now hasten to right that wrong as far as possible. Comrades, we stood shoulder to shoulder in a holy cause and never faltered beneath the old flag. We have no sympathy from our enemies, North or South, and now in this fight with the ballot we find the same forces arrayed against us. The Republican party supported us during the dark days of war, and the great principles we then advocated in common, remain unchanged. We are now called upon to once more go forward in the path of duty. Let us as in the days of yore move with the touch of elbows never faltering until the works of the enemy be carried and the party of right are masters of the field. Our noble standard bearer, the gallant Connor is true as steel, and with such a leader we shall put to flight every foe to the right.

Let no work while the day lasts for the night will come wherein victory must be recorded.

Yours in a common cause. VET

DAMAGING FACTS FOR THE MAINE DEMOCRACY

Achievements of the Republican Party.

How the State has Prospered Under Republican Rule

[SUBSTANCE INCREASE IN MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES AND ITS RESULTS

[Correspondence of the Boston Journal]

AUGUSTA Me Sept 6 1875

During the progress of the present campaign in this State the Democratic press and speechmakers are making a great hue and cry about the hard times and predicting that if there is not a change in political power the country will go to the bad. They charge the Republican party with being responsible for this state of things, and are so reckless in their declarations that so far as this State is concerned they undertake to show by glittering generalities that our people have made reason to shake off the Republican yoke than the people of any other State, giving as their principal reasons that under Republican rule nothing has been done for the revival of shipbuilding nothing for the advance of industrial operations, nothing, in fact, for the interests of business generally. The object of the sturdy opponents they make it to prejudice the workingmen against the Republican party and enthuse them into the support of their own ticket. One editor in his zeal hasty and incautious one. Now he has not had to indulge in unwarranted statements and to bring about a change of State policy as pursued by the Republicans go so far as to say that so long as the Republican party retains power the present depressed condition of affairs will go from bad to worse—business failures will multiply—industry will continue to languish—the number of laborers thrown out of employment will daily increase, until we are borne with a lazz, ruin worse than that which infests Italy, and the country become a nation of tramps!!!

Our correspondent has not the time in the present writing to present in detail such official figures as he would like to show the utter falsity of these foolish utterances. It is undoubtedly true that business at large is dull at the present time and that quite a number of men are out of employment. Our lumber mills are not enjoying the usual prosperity, and there are other minor industries which seriously feel the effect of the hard times. But these hard times are confined to Maine, nor to New England nor to the country at large. They extend across the water to foreign countries where the depression of the times has its effect on our Main commerce and trade just as much in proportion as the depression in those of our home state where our manufacturers look for a market for their products.

Is the Republican party responsible for the hard times in Maine? Let us examine a few facts. The Republican party came into power in 1855. Since then it has had undisputed sway, piling up its majorities year after year with an invincibility that showed that its principles lived in the hearts of the people. From 1860 to 1870 during which four years of Democratic rebellion took place involving an immense outlay of money by taxation and direct loans of the State of a large proportion of its able-bodied men, how stands the official record? In 1860 the United States census reports the total number of industrial establishments in Maine to be 3810, with an invested capital of $23 044 826, giving employment to 34,070 hands, an annual pay roll for such labor of $8 303,891, and turning out of products valued at $38,193,251. In 1870 the same authority reports as the total number of industries 5650, a gain of 1740, with an invested capital of $39 790,710 an increase of $17 745,170, giving employment to 49 780 hands, an increase of 14,361 persons, to whom were paid $14,382,205, an increase in wages disbursed of $6,078,314, and turning out products valued at $79,497 520 an increase of $41 304,287

During this decade of ten years it will thus be seen that under Republican rule in Maine, and in the face of the most gigantic civil war the world ever knew, when the resources of our State were taxed in money and men in a most unprecedented manner the number of our manufacturing establishments is increased over forty-five per cent, the amount of invested capital over eighty per cent, number of hands employed over forty-two per cent, increase of wages over seventy-five per cent, increase in value of manufactured products over one hundred and eight per cent

It will be noted that the pay of wage hands in 1870 was 71 per cent. more than they received in 1860 when the national administration was Democratic and when the rebellion was being conspired. And these high priced wages are still paid to-day for skilled labor, be the mechanic a Republican or Democrat. The actual earnings of the mechanics per annum will average over $300. Some branches of industry pay as high as $4 a day for labor employed. Blacksmiths will average over $18 per week, while saw mill hands will average $15 per week.

It will also be observed that notwithstanding the outcry raised against Republican rule by the Democrats that in ten years the value of our manufactured goods was increased over 108 per cent, and this in the face of a decreased population the population in 1870 being 626,915 persons, in 1860, 628,279 persons. More over, in addition to this splendid exhibit, and in the face of the Democratic statement that the depression of business in Maine owing to Republican rule was such that during the same decade referred to there was an increase in the value of real and personal property in the State of $87,507,923, thus proving that under Republican rule we have enjoyed a marvelous degree of manufacturing prosperity. Take for instance the city of Portland, which pays one-seventh of the whole state tax and, notwithstanding the charge of hard times laid to the Republican party we find an increase of $318,566 in the valuation of personal and real property over that of last year and a decrease of five mills on the $100 in the rate of taxation. Portland is not only the principal metropolis in Maine, but one which enjoys an extensive foreign and domestic trade and although generally known as a commercial city it is also extensively engaged in manufacturing. In the manufacturing city of Gardiner the valuation of the year shows an increase of $14,918. In Lisbon, where there are several cotton and woolen manufacturing companies, increase in valuation has been $220,589 over that of last year. In Bath, which city is more noted for its shipbuilding than for its manufacturing industries, there has been an increase of $126 04; in the value of real estate In Cape Elizabeth, where the Portland Rolling Mills do a very heavy business and pay a tax of nearly $4000, increase of valuation has been $48,709, with a decrease in the rate of taxation of 38 cents on $100 In Auburn there has been a slight increase in the valuation, while the percentage of taxation will be 34 on its less than that of last year In Lewiston there has been an increase of 141,000 in its valuation as compared with last year

If the two last named cities, Auburn and Lewiston, are noted for carrying on the most extensive manufacturing operations in Maine. The former city is the great manufacturing boot and shoe centre in the State, in which twenty odd boot and shoe factories over 1 000 000 are employed and whose annual product foots up an aggregate of over 3,000 000 This industry has grown up and become what it is under the State policy of the Republican party. And so have the great cotton producing industries of Lewiston with an aggregate capital of nearly $3 000 000 giving employment to over 5000 operatives, paying them in the aggregate over $1 500 000 in wages and producing over 7 000,000 worth of cotton fabrics yearly

To those who think with the producing industries of Maine and with the liberal and magnanimous policy pursued by them by the Republican party during its nineteen years of power it seems to be a fair question why with such a showing as that of business prosperity and the immense deposits of our savings banks which have accumulated under Republican rule and which must in such a case as a thing people speedily learn to do, we might also appeal to figures as to whether the Republican party had been in power in this State the total tariff of all our cotton producing states of $2 000 000 And I say that the total value of these same products was $10 000 000 And I say that the total value of these same products was $10 000 000 And I say that the total value of these same products was $10 000 000

With the advent of the Republican party to State power in 1855 began a system of encouraging people as a policy, and it opened favorable to manufacturers that the producing industries began to multiply all over the country, our mill and our ship-yards to resound with the busy hum of industry, and the country to grow in the prosperity of which the present depression is the first serious check. Many of the industries of the state were opened. Numerous additions and the build of the mills and shops of our chief industries were brought into existence during the Republican rule. But we have said enough in relation to the Democratic party that has thus proved a curse to Republican rule. A vote for the Democratic ticket this fall would be a vote to bring back to power the party which must be called into the support of the rebellion.

Yours truly

NEW YORK REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Ex-Governor E. D. Morgan's Address

SARATOGA Sept 8 The Republican State Convention was called to order in the Town Hall by ex-Governor E. D. Morgan who made a short address, in which he urged cease in choosing candidates, and said it was essential to the prayers that the Republicans should control the State in order that the annual taxes in our chief commercial city will not again be $37,000,000 What the people desire in our public men is the capacity to discern and the courage to pursue the right. We should uphold all men who maintain the credit of the State We should extend the hand of fellowship to those of our countrymen who were unfortunately led to take up arms against us and cultivate friendly intercourse with them Let there be no step backward in our efforts to return to specie payments at the earliest possible day and the period is not remote when we shall be again rejoicing in the welfare and prosperity of our common country

Remarks of Hon A. B Cornell

Governor Morgan then nominated Hon A. B Cornell as temporary chairman, who made a short address in which he reviewed the history of the Democratic party as identified with all that has militated against the well being of the country for many years and denounced it as unworthy of support and confidence He said last year it blundered into electing an honest Governor who is striving to do his duty with con plucous fidelity, and straightway the clamorous crew sings the song of reform and the sins of first importance in terms committing partisan outrages in the city of New York little if any, short of the pardon days of the Ring Of the Republican party he claimed that it had proved this country it will be found to be composed of the best citizens In the churches, among business men in the educated industrious, compact and prosperous classes, the Republican element largely predominates, while in the haunts of idleness in the bottoms and among the vicious and ignorant, the Democratic party finds its chief support Can

RUTH'S STEPFATHER

(Concluded.)

The wife saw the storm brewing, and she knew how put out I was, for I had not lit my pipe, nor yet had my evening nap, which I always have after tea. She did what she knew so well how to do—filled my pipe, forgot it into my hand, and just as I was going to dash it to pieces in the hall an hour, she gave one of her old looks, kissed me on the forehead, as with one hand she pressed me back into my chair, and then with the other she lit a splint and held it to my tobacco.

I was done. She always gets over me like that, and after smoking in silence for half an hour, I was lying back with my eyes closed, dropping off to sleep when the wife said (what had gone before I hadn't heard)—

"Yes he's asleep now."

That woke me up, of course, and if I didn't lie there shamming and heard all she said me whisper

"If I can only contrive to make him move over that bit more Luke," said my wife—and he told her.

I couldn't do it mother," he said excitedly. It was heart-breaking. She living in a wretched room there with her daughter—and, mother, when I saw her I felt as if there I cannot tell you

"Come Luke," she said

Lucy is half starved, he said, in a hasty way. Oh mother, it's horrible. She's a wreck, poor girl, and the poor woman is dead dying almost with consumptive disease.

The wife sighed

They told me," he went on, how hard she had tried to help her ordinary needlework and failed, and then as a last resource she had tried to get the man

Poor things," says my wife, but in a sense the mother was a lady."

A clergyman's widow," says Luke bitterly. There isn't a doubt about it. Poor girl—and they've got to learn to rue it before all is done."

Poor girl, Luke," says the wife softly, and I saw through my eyelashes that she laid her hand upon his arm and was looking earnest sly at him while it he didn't cover his face with his hands rest his elbows on the table, and give a low groan. Then the old woman got up and came behind his chair and I began playing with and caressing his hair like the foolish old mother would Mother," he said, "I think you had better go and see them."

Luke," answered her a minute only and looking down at him and then said softly

Don't speak to me just now."

No, he says, softly. I didn't like to ask it.

Then that means you don't want yours, Luke."

Yes, mother," he says, simply, and he says stopped looking me at the other, till the wife bent down and kissed him, holding his head afterwards for a few moments between her hands for she always did worship that chap on only one, and the two closed his eyes tight and went on her praying bravely and thinking.

For some thing like a week a relation had come upon me. I knew Luke was five and twenty and that I was fifty four, but he always seemed like a boy to me, and here was I waking up to the fact that he was a grown man without me was thinking and feeling and I first thought and felt when I saw his mother upon high eight and twenty years ago

I fly back thinking and telling myself I was very sweet with him for deceiving me and that I wouldn't have him and his mother laying plots together against me, and that I wouldn't and by and see him make a fool of himself with the first pretty girl he set eyes on, when in a night and Mary Turner the engineer's daughter, and boys name but of money with her to put into the business, and then be my partner.

Yes I have of you plot together. I'll plot all done and then I pretended to wake up took no notice and let my supper

I kept rather gruff the next morning and made my self very busy about the place and I dare say spoke more harshly than it out for the wife and Luke were so quiet could be and about twelve I went out, with a little cash in my pocket

It was not far to Bennett's place and on going to the right house I asked for Mrs. Murry and was directed to the second floor, where as I reached the door I could hear the clang of my sewing machine, and when I was there, was sure I knew it, but she did not hear me knock so I opened the door softly and looked in upon as sad a scene as I shall ever, I dare say, see

There in the bare room was, asleep in her chair the widow lady who came about the house and I could see that in her face which told plainly enough that she was not suffering she must have been going through very much would soon be over and, situated as she was it gave me a kind of pain

It's no business of yours" I said to myself angrily, and I turned then to look at where was heading and my machine

I will see me to be—only a machine, a great black and a pair of busy white hands were trying very hard to govern the thing and to learn how to use it well

So that's the girl, is it?" I said to myself. Like my boy you've got to be the silly old age and Luke was—

I got no further for at that moment the girl turned round and the most pitiful, drawn, frightened, wondering face that mine my I've gone a queer chub and I couldn't take my eyes off her.

Rose?" she said softly holding up her hand and I saw it was thin and transparent as if she had been ill

Mrs. James Smith I said taking out a new dress? My machine, how does it go? I thought I knew and see

Her face lit up for a moment, but she was very worried over me

I'm so glad you've come, she said in a quite manner like

She pointed to the thread regulator, and the next minute I was showing her that was too tight, and somehow in a gentle kind way, the little woman quite got over me and I stopped two hours helping her till her cheeks sparkled with delight, as she found out how easily she could now make the needle dart in and out of the hard material

Do you think you can do it now?" I said

Oh yes I think so, I am so glad you came

So am I, says I gleefully, for will make it all the easier for you to earn the money as I pay for it

Will I work so hard, she said reproachfully

But you will my dear" I says in spite of myself for I felt sure it wasn't the speaking, but something in me. She been ill for a?" I said nodding two ards her mother

Months," she said with the tears starting in her pretty eyes, "that," she added brightly. I shall have enough with this to get her good medicines and things she can have" and as I looked at her something in me said

God bless you my dear! I hope you will and the next minute I was going down stairs, calling my self a fool

They thought I didn't know at home but I did, there was the wife going over and over again to Bennett's place, and all sorts of little nice things were made and taken there I often used to see them talking about it, but I took no notice, and one artful scoundrel, my boy Luke used to pay the bills down every week out of his own pocket after going to fetch it from the widow's

And all the time I told myself I didn't like it, for I could see that Luke was changed and always thinking of that girl—a girl not half good enough for him. I remembered being poor myself, and hated poverty and I used to speak harshly to Luke and the wife and feel very bitter.

At last came an afternoon when I knew there was something wrong. The wife had gone out directly after dinner, saying she was going out to see a sick woman—I knew who it was, bless you and Luke was fidgeting about, not himself, and at last he took his hat and went out

They might have confided in me," I said bitterly, but all the time I knew that I wouldn't let them. They'll be spending money throwing it away. I know they've spent pounds on them already.

At last I got in such a way that I called down our foreman, left him in charge, and took my hat and went after them.

Every thing was very quiet in Bennett's place, for a couple of dirty dejected-looking women, one of who was in arrears to me, had sent the children that played in the court right away because of the noise, and were keeping guard so that they should not come back.

I went up stairs softly, and all was very still, only as I got nearer to the room I could hear a bitter, wailing cry, and then I opened the door gently and went in.

Luke was there, standing with his head bent by the sewing-machine, the wife sat a chair, and on her knees, with her face buried in the wife's lap, was the poor girl, crying as if her little heart would break, while on the bed, with all the look of pain gone out of her face lay the widow—gone to meet her husband where pain and sorrow are no more.

I couldn't see very plainly, for there was a mist like before my eyes, but I know Luke flushed up as he took a step forward, as if to protect the girl, and the wife looked at me in a frightened way.

But there was no need, for something that wasn't me spoke, and that in a very gentle way, as I stepped forward, raised the girl up, and kissed her pretty face before laying her little helpless head upon my shoulder, and smoothing her soft brown hair.

Mother," says that something from within me, I think there's room in the next house for this poor, forsaken little bird. Luke, my boy, will you go and fetch a cab? Mother will see to what wants doing here."

My boy gave a sob as he caught my hand in his, and the next moment he did what I had not done for years—kissed me on the cheek—before running out of the room, leaving me with my darling nestling to my breast.

I said my darling," for she has been the sunshine of our home ever since—a pale wintry sunshine while the sorrow was true, but spring and summer now

Why, bless her! look at her! I'm full ashamed sometimes to think that she, a lady by birth, should come down to such a life, making me—well, no, it's us now, for Luke's a partner—no end of money by her clever ways. But she's happy, thinking her husband that is to be the last follow under the sun, and let me tell you there's many a gentleman not so well off as my boy will be even if the money has all come out of a queer trade

The Philosophy of Disease.

The philosophy of disease as a subject is one well worthy the attention of mankind, but is unfortunately more generally neglected in a way rather to be deplored. Decidedly the most important fact is that an examination of the closest nature made even out of the originating causes of disease, (since cause is effect, and that these latest manifestations of ills appear to be identical with those which evidence a lack of vital power. In laying the case in this perfectly clear manner treatment is what is required in the first instance. As an important, Dobtetter's Stomach Bitters has received the most positive endorsement from eminent physicians, and has long occupied the foremost rank among physical propelling remedies. Its properties as a general tonic diuretic, sedative of the stomach, liver and bowels; its power to overcome malarial influences, are no less extended than have been acknowledged as occasions recommend themselves to thought.

SEA CAPTAIN CURED —OF— RHEUMATISM.

HE GRINS WITH JOY.

LEXINGTON, Mass, June 12, 1875.

PROF ALI HORSE HILLER

DEAR SIR,—For the alleviation of human suffering I feel it my duty as well as pleasure to certify to the following facts in my own case.

The past spring I was sore afflicted with Sciatic Rheumatism, suffering night after night almost all night without the least cessation, the most excruciating pains I ever knew. My doctor who prescribed in my family for all the common pains and aches, and in whom I still have the utmost confidence, said that medicine would do me no good—in fact could not help me, time probably would, and in six or eight weeks I might leave me in the meantime I must grin and bear it. But I was not disposed to do so, and in my impatience caught at the first article which tender the name of Quack or Patent Medicine, or any other remedy, promised relief. It happened that this was the of Lowell at No 3d Hanover st., Boston, the state of which I accordingly procured from the proprietor, determined to give it a fair trial. I followed out all the directions, and the results were that on using the third bottle I was satisfied that it was acting powerfully, and favorably, and the remaining three bottles, my pain had passed away and I have no occasion again (until pap) but I no longer have to grin them.

Yours respectfully,

WM D PHELPS

We endorse the above testimony as genuine

C. C. CONDON, M. C.

38 Hanover Street

Mr Phelps is a genial, man well and favorably known in this city and for many years has been recognized by our shipping merchants as one of the most successful captains sailing from the port of Boston. His testimony is genuine and speaks more than volumes could express, of one of the great merits of the

Pain in bone is prepared by a careful, experienced and conscientious physician, who has devoted a good deal of sleepless hours and study to the problem of human ills, and among the people. Every bottle is warranted to contain the full amount of the medicine in its highest state of purity and delicacy, and is superior to any medicine ever compounded for that terrible complaint.

In simple cases sometimes one or two doses suffice in the most chronic cases as here is given was in the use of four or five bottles. In the efficacy of simple remedies, hundreds of dollars are saved to those who resort to them in time. A case recently in my practice in Boston Concord, N. H., Worcester, Providence, Fall River, Bangor and other places.

Price $1.0 Bottle.

For the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot:

The undersigned, administrator of the estate of Taylor Dargin, late of Bangor, in said county, deceased, respectfully represents that the goods and chattels, rights and credits of said deceased are not sufficient to pay his just debts and charges of administration by about four thousand dollars.

Wherefore your petitioner prays Your Honor to grant him a license to sell at public or private sale and convey all such as described in the inventory of the real estate of said deceased, including the reversion of the widow's dower therein, as in his discretion the interests of the estate and charges of administration

PUBLIC NOTICE.

Pursuant to warrants from the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of Bangor, the duly qualified electors of said City are hereby notified to meet in their respective wards, on Monday, the thirteenth day of September next, at the hours for the forenoon, to give in their votes for Governor, Four Senators and Five Representatives to the Legislature, County Commissioner, County Treasurer, Representative to Congress, and also to give their votes on the following questions, viz: Shall the Constitution of the State of Maine be amended as proposed by Resolves of the Legislature, approved February twenty fourth, A. D. 1875, to wit.

ELECTION OF SENATORS BY PLURALITY VOTE.

Senators shall be elected by a plurality of the votes given in by the qualified electors

Sections four and five of Article four, Part second, of the constitution, are amended by striking out the words "majority," wherever it occurs in said sections, and inserting instead thereof the word "plurality."

RELATING TO SPECIAL LEGISLATION AND CORPORATIONS

Amend Article four, Part third, of the constitution, by adding thereto the following, sections

The Legislature shall from time to time, provide as far as practicable, by general laws, for all matters usually appertaining to special and private legislation.

Section 15 Corporations shall be formed under general laws, and shall not be created by or amended, nor their powers or privileges extended, nor subjects of taxation, nor rights of property changed, except as under general laws. The object of the corporation cannot otherwise be attained, and how ever formed, they shall be forever subject to the general laws of the State.

POWER OF GOVERNOR TO PARDON

Article two, Part third, section eleven, shall be amended by striking out the words "legislature," and inserting instead thereof the word "governor," and by adding thereto the following "Commutations and pardons, except in cases of impeachment, may be granted by the governor, with such restrictions and modifications as he may be deemed proper, subject to such regulations as may be provided by law, relative to the manner of applying for pardons. And he shall communicate to the legislature, at each session thereof, each case of commutation or pardon granted, stating the name of the convict, the crime of which he was convicted, the sentence and the date of the same, the reasons and facts upon which the commutation or pardon was granted, and the names of the petitioners who joined in the recommendation."

APPORTIONMENT OF MUNICIPAL AND POLICE COURTS

The constitution shall be amended, by striking out section eight of Article six, and inserting the following

Section 8. Judges of municipal and police courts shall be appointed by the executive governor, in the same manner as other judicial officers, and shall hold their offices for the term of four years, provided, however, that the first present incumbents shall hold their offices for the term for which they were elected."

APPORTIONMENT.

Section eight of Article two shall be amended by inserting after the word "first," the words and thereof," so that the section as amended shall read as follows:

"Section 8 All taxes upon real and personal estate, assessed by authority of this State, shall be apportioned and assessed equally, according to the just value thereof."

Section 9. The legislature shall never, in any manner, suspend or surrender the power of taxation."

INCLUDING LAND AGENCY.

Section two of Article nine, of the amendments, shall be amended by striking out the words "land agent and."

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION.

Article four, Part third, shall be amended by adding thereto section nine, as follows.

The Legislature shall, by a two thirds concurrent vote of both branches, have the power to call a constitutional convention for the purpose of amending the constitution.

DISTRICT OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The Legislature may enact laws excluding the right of suffrage, for a term not exceeding ten years, all persons convicted of treason, bribery, or of voting at any election, under the influence of bribery.

REPEALING CLAUSE.

Article ten. Section six of Article ten shall be amended by striking out the words, and inserting instead thereof the following

Section 6. After the amendments proposed herewith shall have been submitted to popular vote, the chief justice of the Supreme judicial Court shall arrange the same in such form as to conduct appropriate votes; and in proper sessions, parts and sections, one thing to a section, words and clauses not in conflict, making no other changes in the provisions or language thereof, and shall submit the same to the legislature at the next session And the first and subsequent, when approved by the legislature, shall be engrossed on parchment, and the chief justice shall deposit the original in the office of the Secretary of State; and proceed in the same manner as provided in the books containing the laws of the State And the result, for with the amendments made thereto, in accordance with the provisions thereof, shall be the supreme law of the State.

Section 7. Section eight and nine of Article ten of the existing constitutions shall respectively be numbered as new sections eight and nine.
